DATE: 2006-04-29 RACE: Oakville Scratch Races

A GRADE

51km

It was good to be back racing at Oakville where the racing's always pretty honest and hard. Some very early attacks were made by Pete Hackney and some others which livened up the race right from the start. An move of three then went on about lap three at the base of the hill. These three were away for about a lap and a half when Andrew Payne bridged across and went straight past. Pretty soon the bunch absorbed the three breakaways leaving Payney off the front solo. Rob Brewer took off in pursuit (I think) and shortly afterwards a big attack came at the base of the climb that split the bunch. Three riders tried to get on to the move but ended up blowing and drifting back to the chase group. The front group caught Payney (I think) and the chase tried but never got back. With a lap or so to go, Rob drifted off the back of the front group but held out solo for 5th place - I think! Correct me if I'm wrong.
